The Projective Test - McClelland

In the given illustration, I can see a man on the left hand side that appears to be sitting at his desk in front of a window. On the right side, there is a picture standing on the desk, which looks like it has three people in it, that the man is looking at. The man is dressed pretty formally, wearing a white dress shirt and a black tie. The look that he has on his face while looking at the picture on his desk seems to be pretty serious, and also pensive. I would interpret that the man is a busy businessman, that probably travels a lot and works many hours. He is away from his family a lot and the picture that he is looking at is depicting his family. As the family is seen more in the background of the picture, the family seems to have moved more to the background of the life of this businessman. He is in his thoughts about that in the moment that we see in the illustration, which is why we see him with this contemplative look on his face. He probably misses his family and is thinking about past decisions he has made in his work life, that led to this point of him not being able to spend a lot of time with his loved ones.
