

What made the Kingdom of Israel so unique?

To begin with, their community was really different due to their monotheistic religion. They only believed in one God unlike the other communities mentioned in the chapter. Furthermore, the 10 commandments were holy to their community. This means that they were not only guided and ruled around by the powerful people but also led by ten basic and essential rules.

The structure also differs by the fact that the division of classes was based on both economic status and religious affiliations.

What are similarities?

First, the economy is based on agriculture as well as trade and commerce. Also, even though the Religion is a huge difference, the influence of religion on the community is still very equal. Last but not least, the Kingdom of Israel like the other groups/communities/Kingdoms had a hierarchical structure.
