One time when I was younger I made a large purchase. I bought a brand new car. The vehicle was a black on black chevy rs cruze. This was the biggest mistake I made in my life. I went out and spent a lot of money on car that i didn't test drive, the reason why i bought the car was for its testing. The car test for safety. Laughing out loud. The car had no torque. I still managed to get speeding tickets that I did not get the time to look at yet. I had some good times in the car. I put a lot of miles on it waitressing in out of the city. My rent was low, but my car bill was high. I eventually sold the car after paying it off. I didnt get my dollars worth though, but like I said the car had high miles. I sold the car because I lost my liscence. I vowto never speed in a car again when I do get my liscence back after I pay off a couple of speeding tickets.
