

This person has been working harder than the others because he wants to improve and optimize his energy to follow his dreams and start his own real estate business, so he begins to plan the future and the structure of the company to make his goals and dreams come true. He begins the plan of his real estate business with an estimated budget and the location of his company, and he also works with other people to help them do market research and find possible places to invest. Sometimes he gets tired and frustrated with himself because he works too much and he arrives late at his house to see his family, but in the end, he knows no matter what that all his work at the final is going to value all the efforts that have been made in these couple of years and that he wants to make his family proud and help them have a great future. His support for his dreams is overwhelming, so it is a huge motivator to keep up the hard work, as well as for his children, because this guy wants to ensure that they have a bright future with all of the opportunities that he provides. In his childhood, he didn't have any, so that is also a big motivation to continue the project of his life.