

Tiffany Black| Chapter 1 Summary and Reflection

In this chapter Tennent introduces the reader to the current state of reality; he states that Christianity is on the move on a global scale. These large-scale changes that are occurring will change how we view church history, theology, and our understanding of world missions. Unlike other religions Christianity has no culture or civilization rather God the Father has enabled Christianity to grow out of other cultures and civilizations. While the gospel message of Jesus Christ - that he is God's Son who was born and died to atone for our sins and offer us eternal life. Christianity throughout history has experienced major growth in one region or area only to see withdrawal and remove in another. It can easily be stated that just as quickly as the religion grew in one area to be drawn away these is how the religion has spread so quickly and been able to be so sustainable over thousands of years. Beginning from Judaism and spreading into The Way and eventually Christianity God's word has had mass and global impact throughout this world - not just in the region it but across the God's world. God the Father creator of heaven and earth has ensured that his Word has touched all over the world he has created and that is good news worth holding on to and spreading.
