

"Watching the movie without saying" - "La vita è bella"

Jing Liu

EMMANUEL JEANPIERRE

Liberal Arts and Sciences

12/02/2023

"Watching the movie without saying" - "La vita è bella"

Even in the most difficult and darkest days, even though there was no hope and death was near, he still loved and protected his wife and son with his life and wisdom. His courage and wisdom, even in the smoke of war, even in the darkness of the concentration camp, even at the moment when the last gunshot sounded death, still shone with dazzling light.

He tried his best to create a beautiful fantasy for his son in the tragic world of the concentration camp. He told his son that all cruelty was just a game, and the reward of the game was a brand new tank. Therefore, his son had enough courage to survive the years of fire and water. Finally, when he sat on the Allied tank, his happiness was speechless, and that happiness was exactly what his father exchanged for him with his life. He did not give up any chance to create even a drop of joy for his family in the storm. When passing the radio room of the concentration camp, he risked his life and shouted his wife's name on the radio. He wanted to tell her that he and his son were still alive. He took the opportunity of serving as a waiter to play "Boat Song" for his wife. This song, which once sounded on the night of their love, floated through the thick fog, and comforted his wife in the dark. It also made their family summon up courage to experience the dark time together.

On the last night of his life, he settled his son in an iron box, and then went to find his wife. When he passed the iron box after he was arrested, he knew that his son was watching him. So he put on a funny look and made his son laugh. He still insisted on making his son believe that it was just a game. Don't be afraid. Always smile and face it optimistically. Then, the gunshot rang, and he went, and his son and wife were finally liberated. When they hugged in the sun, his son said, "We won!!" Indeed, in the midst of this catastrophe, they won because they had a hero's husband and father, whose name was Gideo.

"La vita è bella" is a very romantic film. The young Jewish Kido went to an Italian town to make a living by opening a bookstore. There, he met the beautiful girl Dora. Then, there was a series of relaxed scenes full of wisdom, funny, dark and romantic. Finally, Kido and Dora finally got married. At the turn of the camera, they chased their son from the room to the yard, The happy life of a family of three is enviable. Gideo uses his bicycle to carry his beautiful wife, and his smart son sits in the frame of the car. They gallop past, but the Nazi barbed wire has appeared on the street.

Nothing is more heartbreaking than the sudden end of happiness. When Gideo's happy life just started, his Jewish identity led him to be arrested and sent to the concentration camp. His wife, who did not need to go to the concentration camp, resolutely jumped on the train with them. The most sincere love, sometimes it really doesn't need too many words, even holding hands to see each other, just jump up and follow the ends of the earth. In the film, the actor who plays Dora has very good acting skills, which is a very restrained calm. When she heard the news that the child was going to be killed in the concentration camp, she had no expression on her face. She just stood on the stairs and was bumped by the crowd behind her. She looked out of the window with a far-reaching vision. Later, she was sent to pick up the clothes of the dead. She was very careful and didn't dare or want to find her son's clothes. It can also be seen from this that the deepest love of a person is actually very calm, and the one who can cry out is often the beginning of relief.

Finally, Gideo's son and Dora hugged each other in the sun. He shouted, "We won.". At that time, he did not know that his father had died. The film starts with a narrator. In the voice of Kidu's son, he has also entered old age. Then this film can be understood as his memory. In his memory, his father is still alive. This is another kind of life. Guns, explosives, poison gas, death, hunger, these things seem powerful, but the final winner can only be people and life. The real light is like the moment when Gideo blinked at his son, which means that no matter what, as long as we are not afraid, strong, happy and hopeful, life will be beautiful after all, so we will always win.