

Introduction

- I am from Jersey City, New Jersey but my parents were born in the Philippines.
- I am studying psychology currently and I hope to pursue a career in either counseling or exercise science.
- I would say Jesus is my personal Lord and Savior. I would like to think of Him as a brother and a guide in this life where I endure all sorts of trials and tribulations.
- I dream of either doing photography, counseling, or being a personal trainer to professional athletes. Although the journey is long and I still have much to learn in those fields, it is a fulfilling career and journey to pursue.
- I think one person I can say that I admire in my life is probably my father. He is very family oriented and has dedication towards his work and his family. His work ethic is something I would like to possess someday.
