

Student: Bernadette Davis

Course: HIS 113: WCI

Instructor: Dr. Lyndell O'Hara

Assignment: Frame it Assignment

Date: February 12th, 2023

This assignment was based on the following questions that is in the text:

- What is the nature of the cosmos (universe), social order and individual ethics in today's world?
- What constitutes and justifies proper social order?
- What principles guide ethics or individual decisions about right and wrong behavior?

When one thinks of the cosmos (universe) I think of how God created everything. No matter what any world history book we read, God created everything. Some people may think scientifically about how the universe was created, but many will go a biblical route of how things were created.

Think that what's confusing is that when we read Genesis, we envision what God created first, the earth itself, land and water. He created all types of birds that fly in the sky, all creatures that swim in the water and creatures that crawl and wal on land. Then God created man in His own image. It's not just religion, but also my family culture, where every generation was taught the creation of life.

Social Order today I believe has somewhat lost its value in this country. (I can't speak for another country because it may be different). The government needs the people to come together to ensure the system is being adhered to. With all the unnecessary injustice that is happening between the law enforcement and the people, how can anything remain in order?

There has to be some way that they (the government and law enforcement) need to find a way to gain the trust back with the people in order to correct the social order within this country.

I believe our children are lost today due to the lack of principles that are in the home because this generation doesn't know God. They have not been taught or introduced to His principles of life. Then there is also the generation who lost faith in God or left the church because they have been hurt. There are people that do not know the 10 commandments or what's wrong behavior from right behavior because they have learned it from someone else or other influences.