Rakema Shamily

Topic: Unethical Organization

1. Why is the organization considered unethical?
2. What are some of its unethical practices or behaviors?
3. What suggestions would you offer to assist the organization in becoming more ethical in its practices and/or behaviors?

The unethical organization I choose to research is Nestle corporation.

The definition of unethical is not conforming to a high moral standard. Unethical business practices minimum standards for business code of conduct. According to the google.com definition, it includes any behaviors that are widely accepted a being morally and lead to the mistreatment of people, animals, or the environment. Examples of being unethical is falsifying sales, overselling a product that show negative results but are forced positive.

Nestle is a company that has some unethical issues. The main issue is