

Description

According to Chp 4 page 81 (Weger), " The supervisor- supervisee relationship is an extremely important aspect of the social work student's educational experience. You may come to admire and respect, your field instructor for his or her knowledge, abilities, competence as a practitioner, and willingness to serve as a mentor". Think about your person that is providing you supervision and discuss what do you find exceptional about your supervisor that creates the space for a leaning opportunity.

What I currently find exceptional about my field supervisor is that she does create a space for there to be an oppportunity for me to learn and look at my job from a different angle. She is always available when needed and the conversation during our supervision is always engaging and enlightening. My field supervisor creates a space that allows me to ask questions and she gives feedback to the best of her knowledge and if there's a question that she can't answer at that time he always offers to get back to me. My field supervisor has made herself available and is knowledgeable about what needs to get done for the internship program.
