

Nehemías Brown Meza

Pablo García

PMN201

February 13th, 2023

Solemn Covenant

As I sit down to write this Solemn Covenant, I am reminded of the words of A.B. Simpson and the powerful message that his covenant has brought to countless Christians over the years. Like him, I am committed to surrendering my life to the will of God. I am inspired to make a similar covenant of my own. My covenant is to create a foundation that will impact generations by providing people with food, education, and resources to be better persons. At the same time, I want to share the hope found in Jesus Christ that this hopeless generation so desperately needs.

I know that this will be a challenging task. There will be many obstacles and challenges along the way, but I am willing to face them all with faith and courage. I have already faced many trials and challenging situations, and I know that they were all part of God's plan to shape and mold me into the person He wants me to be. Through these experiences, I have learned to trust in God's goodness and His perfect timing. Even when things seem wrong, I know He is still in control and that everything works together for good.

My promise to God is to go wherever He wants me to go. My future is uncertain, as I will be graduating next year, and I am still determining my next step. However, I trust that God will guide me and direct my path, just as He has done in the past. I know that I am not alone in this journey. God has been with me every step of the way, guiding and directing me, and I am grateful for His presence in my life. He is the one who brought me to the place where I am today, and I know that He has a plan for my life that is greater than anything I could imagine.

In this covenant, I pledge to live for the benefit of others and to exalt God's name. I want to be a vessel of His love and grace, sharing His message of hope with those who are hurting and in need. I know that this will be a challenging task. It will require sacrifice, hard work, and dedication. However, I am willing to give my all to this mission, knowing that it is for the glory of God. As I make this covenant, I am reminded of the words of Paul in Romans 12:1-2:

"Therefore, I urge you, brothers and sisters, in view of God's mercy, to offer your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy and pleasing to God—this is your true and proper worship. Do not conform to the pattern of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind. Then you will be able to test and approve what God's will is—his good, pleasing, and perfect will."

I want to be a living sacrifice, holy and pleasing to God. I want to be transformed by renewing my mind so that I can know and do His will. Moreover, I trust that as I make this covenant, God will be with me every step of the way, guiding and directing me and leading me to fulfill the purpose He has called me.

In conclusion, I commit myself to God and His will for my life. I surrender all I am and have to Him, and I trust He will use me in ways far beyond my wildest dreams. I will work tirelessly to create a foundation that will impact generations and share the hope in Jesus Christ with all who will listen. I know this journey will not be easy, but with God's help, I am ready to face whatever challenges come my way.