The 10 Commandments appear very frequently in scriptures, The complete 10 Commandments are in Exodus 20:2-17 which explains all 10 Commandments in a recognizable way that other scriptures don't do. I think that as Christians and followers of God, we should obey the Laws of the Lord cause that shows our devotion and promise that we won't commit sin and obey the Law. Also if we don't follow the Commandments or a least try to it shows that we are not fully committed to what God and Jesus want us to see and understand.

In the New Testament, many scriptures show how Jesus and the apostles followed through with the 10 Commandments cause they saw the 10 Commandments as laws that all Christians should follow throughout life, and not as a way to find salvation or earn it. In the New Testament, the 10 Commandments are reinforced and are taught by Jesus to Christians and it is explained and shown in situations what each of the laws represents and means.

In the Old Testament, the concept of salvation is the deliverance of sin and the punishments that happen to humans when they don't follow the 10 Commandments. And people in the Old Testament believed that God was going to save them and if they had faith in God they would be able to earn salvation. In the Old Testament, many believers believed that it was the Law that gave them salvation, but the apostles had to show that it wasn't obeying the Law and following it through that gave them salvation, it was the faith in God that was able to give them salvation.

I think that the 10 Commandments aka the Law helped Christians know and understand what daily expectations God wants us to follow to not sin and receive the consequences for sinning. But I do think that it is not needed to gain righteousness and salvation cause if we believe in God and appreciate and understand everything that he has done for us then that is how we as Christians are saved. The 10 Commandments are like the rules all believers have to follow to not lose faith in God and Jesus Christ as well.
