Running the Deer: Original Art

Poem Lyrics:

First you just look, later you will find
No matter where we are, together will be fine.
Together let's make noise
Together let's start a song
But don't be too loud or she will be found.

I went towards a place where I could not find safety.
Although I went to the wilderness,
I walk, I run, I move towards the wilderness.
No matter where I hide,
That could not stop me from being found.

As I am walking to you, I am talking to you.
I hear shouting, a beautiful shouting.
Where is the shouting?
Outside in the opening is the shouting.
I hear danger, I feel in danger.

Not wanting to die, I keep walking, running, moving.
But I'm so tired of walking, running, moving.
Never again I, will I here, around will I be walking.
I am killed and being taken.
There in the wilderness I am killed.

Now I'm dead, getting close to my end.
Getting covered with dust and dust should I return.
Oh, put a flower on me so I can remember that now I am free.
Ran away for too long but now I sing my song.
Now I cease but now I can rest in peace.
