

Yeyeong Kong

Professor Stubbs

ENG201: Global Literature I

February 23, 2023

The Girl Who Married the Bear and
Coyote Master of Death: Original Art Work

Poetry:

There is a beginning and there is an end.
It starts with life and it ends with death.
Life is a journey, filled with decisions and regrets.
Where do we go? Wherever life will make us grow.

There is love and there is hate.
It starts with affection and it ends with sacrifice.
Life is a journey, filled with surprises and threats.
Where do we start? Wherever our heart will make us go.

There is healing and there is killing.
It starts with hope and it ends with a choke.
Life is a journey, filled with smiles and tears.
Where do we end? Wherever there's nothing left.

Am I happy? Am I satisfied?
I have what I want but I feel like I'm caught.
Caught of what? Regrets? Despair?
Caught with an empty heart not understanding where to restart.

