

Each element is conveyed differently in the film but mostly cohesively together. Some of the water jobs required some muscle power for. For example one of the jobs required filling buckets of water which required the force of the water and muscle power from the person filling the buckets.

The job I found the worst was the metal melding one because I'm not a hands on person. I rarely like to get my hands dirty and it just seemed really hot and smelly. Yes there may be worse but for me it was because I hate being in a hot environment it makes me feel claustrophobic.
