How these elements were conveyed in the video is romans were always looking to make jobs easier even if it was still a tough. Jobs that take muscle power take longer than other jobs that use wind and water power. Using them were very beneficial to be very efficient.

The worst job on this film is creating the walls for houses, its very time consuming, and it wouldn't be the worst job but I can't do anything with poop, the final part with completing the wall is covering it with mud and poop which is not my thing at all.
