Apple AirPods Pro Max: My headphones are made in China. I bought them in the Apple store in Soho. Before I got them from that store, they were shipped directly from China. They say it was designed in California but made in China. This means that the idea and blueprints were made and created in California, but the technical aspect was assembled in China.

Golden Goose sneakers: My Golden Goose Sneakers are individually handmade and sent from Italy. Once they arrive in America, they are to go through customs. Depending on if you pick them up in-store, they are placed in one of the locations. But if you order directly from the site, they will arrive in Italy.

Ugg boots: Ugg boots are made in Australia. From there, they are shipped to California. This is their worldwide store warehouse. All shoes from there are shipped directly to you. I bought mine from the store in the World Trade Center. All the shoes in that store come from California.

Brandy Melville shirt- all Brandy Melville clothes are manufactured and made in Italy. Since it has become more popular in the United States, they have made a manufacturing store in California. It was made in Italy but shipped to the United States and the California warehouse.

From there, they sent boxes of items to all the stores in the United States. I got my shirt in New York.

Cartier ring: This ring is made in France. Which means the idea and template for the creation were made there. The gold itself used to make it comes from Italy. Once they craft the ring in Paris, they ship the jewelry to the flagship located on fifth avenue nyc. This is the store I purchased my ring from. If I didn't buy it from this store, they ship from the NYC store to other locations.

Dyson airwrap: My hair dryer from Dyson is made in the Philippines. Depending what website you buy from determines where it ships to. Large companies like best buy and Nordstrom, as well as other big stores, will get bulk packages from the Philippines store. I ordered mine from Nordstrom. This means the hair dryer came from the Philippines, arrived in NYC at the Nordstrom headquarters, and was shipped to me in Michigan, where I had gotten it.

Stanley water cup: My water bottle from Stanley was made in China. All the mugs are designed and tested in Seattle, Washington, before being sent to the final location. I bought my cup in an urban outfitters store. This means my cup was sent in a bulk order from Seattle and delivered to NYC urban outfitter where I received it.

After doing this assignment, I could see how different the world would be without a global network. So many things in America come from China or other places worldwide. With that, stores would have fewer products than we see today. We would also have to pay a lot more for many more things for our limited resources in America. For example, fruit would be much more expensive because it would only sometimes be in season, and we would have a limited supply. The world would be affected mainly without global networking. As a country that relies on so many different countries, we would struggle as a whole.
