Assignment: Week 7 Written Assignment

This weeks "what if" assignment about various kings and leaders' conversion to either Judaism, Islamic, Buddhism or Christianity. I have chosen to talk about Constantine's what if scenario, in which what if he didnt convert to Christianity became a Mithraism. Mithraism is a cult among the Roman soldiers. He was in the middle of defending his kingdom when Constantine converted to Christianity. But if he ignored the sign written in greek words there was no way he would be alive and Christianity wouldn't be the way it is today. Would their lives be the same if that hadn't happened? I would have to say that some lives would have gone in a different direction. Constantine would have lost his kingdom and may have died during the invasion.

This had to be during the time Paul was on a mission to kill all Christains during that point, although I believe that Pauls would have continued to encounter Jesus, but I believe his life would have been cut short. The Mithraism faith or cult would have increased more than the Christian faith and this would have been forced onto the people and many of the scriptures Paul have written would not be in the new testament we know today.
