

Journal #4

Joseph Kim

Alliance University

SWK355: Social Welfare Policy & Services

Professor Marcia B Herrera

2/20/23

Journal #4

The agencies that received the most money were Front Stream LLC with a grant of 12.8 million dollars, Driscoll Foods 3.6 million, and East side House Inc with 1.3 million dollars. The purpose the enormous amount of money going into Front Stream is because it is an agency that helps other profits be able to spread their helping hands further out. Front Stream is like Square space but for non-profit agencies. The goal is "PART OR ALL OF THE CONTRIBUTION TO ANOTHER NOT-FOR PROFIT, THE FUNDS GO TO THE THIRD PARTY VENDOR, FRONT STREAM LLC, AND THEY TURN THE MONEY AROUND AND PAYOUT IT OUT" (UWNY, 2020). Assuming due to the many amounts of non-profit agencies in need, the Front Stream requires a large sum of money for their services. Money goes towards all sorts of expenses and then to help the hundreds of agencies in New York.

Then for Driscoll Foods, it seems to be a place that has fresh fruits and vegetables to be delivered to non-profit organizations for their own local missions in New York. With Eastside House the purpose is to provide the given resources for families to have their children be in a better learning environment.

These all seem well and good but to be seeing the sheer amount of money that was given out to Front Stream LLC was outright ridiculous. What could possibly be needing that much money to help start non-profit organizations? Then a thought came: this was the of 2020, the hit of the pandemic. These were times when education and food for families all over New York were in high demand due to lack of. Schools were locked up and small businesses and jobs closed down, and many folks fell into poverty. This crisis would be what made sense to why there are millions of dollars being sent to an organization that controls the flow of food, education, and the ability for all new non-profit organizations to rise.

Many heard the call to rise and help with their church, home, or anywhere. Yet that needed money, a team that knows how to properly start up and run an agency, the food for the likely goal is to give food. If all of these finances truly marked off a list of need requirements to start NEw York to help the people, then I can personally say it was money well worth.