Nyack Heritage Final Response

This semester here at Alliance University has been one of my best yet. The things that stood out to me the most in this class are not what you would expect. I like that I was able to express everything in my life and faith. In order to express one's own views and reflect on one's own life, this assignment questions frequently ask you to relate to the text and apply it to real life. You can use your own voice and capacity to critically and constructively consider your placement in this class . There was something special about this class that I couldn't really put my finger on, it is a more flexible course with more critical thinking and significantly not as much memorization. Of course, all topics are essential and students should embrace them all but with this class. With every class you have something to anticipate something that walks with you everyday. But that is what I liked the most in this course , when it wasn't what I expected. I can say I am a little more appreciative about everything I've learned and even been reminded of how this class has shined a light on my life and I hope my classmates feel the same. I believe everything we learned this semester was very beneficial not only for our natural being but also our spirits.

I can't say that I'm 100% certain what my calling is or what he should expect for us , But I do believe that he gave us instructions on how to live this life. The feeling feels like when a parent tells you not to touch the stove, but you wanted to so badly. I say that to say this temptation gave me a suspenseful feeling and mostly because I am a person that fears the unknown. When we study and we pray for wisdom and understanding we must expect God to do just that in our lives. I think People are called to carry out specific tasks that God desires them to do throughout the word of the Lord. Of course we would have to read his words to really understand the fullness of what he is actually calling us to be. When God summoned Abraham, he was required to leave his entire home and travel to uncharted lands. As we know Moses was a murderer and fugitive who also ran away from the law. Before God instructed him to guide the Israelites out of Egypt, he was on the run for about forty years. Moses was a murderer, a runaway, and God's selected one nevertheless. God desired a man in the flesh who would relay his message and follow His word. The lord desired a vessel through which He should reveal His Glory. God already knew who he could trust in this journey.

Moses was chosen by God to guide the Hebrew people out of Pharaoh's control and into the Promised Land by calling to him from a burning bush. Following the passing of Moses, God appointed Joshua to guide the Israelites into the Promised Land by crossing the Jordan River. These servants weren't all that qualified to answer God's orders. Even though they were all driven by sinful impulses just like us, God still chose to call them. TO ME THAT'S WHEN THE VERSE THAT SAYS Gifts with Romans 11:29

“For the gifts and calling of God are without repentance.” I also loved when It was said in III. THE SOURCE OF SANCTIFICATION , that Sanctification is to be received as one of the free gifts God desires to bestow upon us. If it is not a gift, then it is not a part of redemption. Sanctification is to be received as one of the free gifts God desires to bestow upon us. If it is not a gift, then it is not a part of redemption. If it is a part of redemption, then it is as free as the blood of Jesus. It comes through the personal indwelling of Jesus. He does not put righteousness into the heart simply, but God comes there personally Himself to live. Words are weak; they, indeed, are utterly inadequate to express this thought. As men would pursue a trade or profession to make money out of it, divine healing is not a mercenary medical profession. If for any reason the notion of a rogue appears in it, disregard and reject it. To be chosen by God According to the Bible, we can live not only for ourselves but also for God and other people because God has selected us. Being a child's choice can strengthen your sense of meaning.

Even when I did the living in my Calling PowerPoint and helped me to think about what makes me special to someone so much that they can see a future for me that I can't. It showed me that you really must study to be approved. I acknowledge that we all have a greater purpose in life and we must keep pushing forth. God gave us clear instruction in his word . I also established that we all have these gifts with and without repentance and It also helped me understand that there is more than I can do even today. Like stay in my word and speak of his goodness , things of that sort. i believe my real purpose in life is to help save souls , i have a very Outgoing spirit and I connect with almost everyone that I meet and it doesn't take a lot of conversation but its like they can feel my light if that makes sense. Coming from atheism was the hardest part for me , Because I felt like I didn't have a voice or a place even on this earth. But I have learned that even when my earthly parents or the people I call my closest friends don't necessarily show the love that there is a lot of love to go around if you just started because he first loved us and we would never know how to love anyone if he did not first love us.
