

Somebody who's helped form me into who I am is my father. My father, who was my biggest influence in my life. he taught me how to provide value to myself. He also taught me that A man needs to create his own value because it will never be given to him. Without my father's doing, there would be nobody who would be there to help me grow, or nobody there to be a firm example of what I should become. Therefore I think my father help form who I am.
