Many things come from China. Lithium batteries that are in every single rechargeable device, the largest lithium reserve is in Chile these batteries are part of everyone's daily lives, that have any sort of rechargeable battery since its lithium, phone, Electric cars, almost anything that you can think of, then it is put in whatever electronic device, then shipped to the united states to my home so that it could be used during my daily living just like now where im using my laptop right now that has lithium.

My bed is made here In the United States, my life without a bed would be terrible sleeping is very important to me and everyone in the world beds have been around for 200,000 years so it is very important, the majority of peoples lives are sleeping in their beds.

My Oakley glasses are very important in my life because they help me see while im playing sports since I dont want to mess up my regular glasses, Oakleys were manufactured here in the USA, without them I would not be able to play sports with confidence which would not be good because playing sports and playing well is very important.

My shoes are also very important most of them are made in USA depending on the brand somethings are made in China, without shoes life would be very difficult since shoes are very important to me and everyone on earth, especially in slippery situations, if its too cold or even if its too hot shoes is what makes everything possible life would not be all that great without shoes.
