1. Why is it important to tell the story about the world before mass communication?
  - a. Because the narrative can easily be misguided to believe another person's beliefs instead of what the Bible tells us to believe.
2. Given Lipman's account of media as a window on the world, how might this change your perspective of the importance of professionalism in the journalistic profession?
  - a. Reading Lipman's account of media as a window on the world my perspective of the professionalism and journalistic profession has definitely changed sometimes the story that the journalist wants is the story they put out instead of the actual truth. Journalist need to remain unbiased.
3. Describe the theories of agenda setting, media system dependency, and
  - a. Theories of agenda setting suggests that the media has the ability to shape public opinion by determining what issues are given the most attention. Media system dependency theory is the more dependent an individual is on the media for having his or her needs fulfilled, the more important the media will be to that person.
4. Which of your personal characteristics lead you to selectively use media in a different way than some of your friends?

- a. Some of my personal characteristics lead me to use the media differently than my friends is my timidity. Most of my friends tend to be more outgoing than I am, which is why social media reflects a more bold view.
