

Jonas Trofort

Freewrite

March 27, 2023

Start Time: 9:38 pm

End Time: 9:53 pm

An aspect of this course that have been most helpful to me are these freewrites which help me to freely express whatever it is that I want to say. I also like the fact that I can mess up as much as I want and not have to worry about correctness. It gives me the chance to get better and familiar with typing on the computer and becoming familiar with different platforms. The grammar exercises have also helped me a lot because it's teaching me a part of English that I've always wanted to learn and have minor difficulty with, still today. I've always struggled with English grammar since coming here to the states so those exercises help me a lot.

An aspect of this course that I like the least would have to be the response papers. I hate writing papers, I've always disliked them. I'm not descriptive enough and never know what else to include in a paragraph. I also struggle with citing articles and things in general. I usually will use a citation machine, but still, I'm not a fan.