

Overview

Your Community Assessment and Intervention Team is essentially working as a task group with the goal of completing an assessment and intervention plan in the community.

Please reflect on the similarities and differences in group dynamics between your team's approach to the community assessment and your group membership and leadership experiences earlier in this course.

- 1. Discuss the following topics: leadership patterns of the groups, level of intimacy and vulnerability, the role of diversity in your group, group rules and expectations, and levels of participation of both you and the other group members.

Leadership patterns within the group is shared between all members. Each member have shown there level of intimacy and vulnerability while being in the group and having to take on the role of leadership. The group rules and expectations is understood by each member and respected by all the participants no matter what their role is within the group. Each member in the group has dated before comes with a vast knowledge of different information that we kind of put together like pieces to a puzzle to make a full picture.

- 2. What is your level of satisfaction with your Community Assessment and Intervention Team experience?

My level of expectation in regard to the community assessment and intervention team experience was a good one. Each member of the group was to come with three topics that could possibly be you for our assessment topic. Jenna presented an excellent topic that the group agreed would be used for our assessment.
