

Jenna Gillespie

World Civilization

Lindell O'Hara

28 March 2023

Week 9

I knew very little about the Gupta Empire before this video. The first thing that stood out to me was how the people lived in peace with each other and the lands around them. They live without capital punishment and do not kill any living creatures. They also have religious freedoms while still most of their people are Buddhist and Hindu. Both religions teach to live a Noel life and that good fill comes to you if you live a good life. Without rules the people have learned to live righteous lives amongst one another and to thrive while doing so. Secondly, they are especially skilled when it comes to working with metals. Even in the year 400 AD they had a 35 foot tall pillar that were great architectural and technological advancements with iron. They also made advancements in astronomy. Without the use of modern technology they proved the earth moves around the sun and the circumference of the earth. Related to this they also made advancements in mathematics by creating the contribution of pi.