Describe your participation in the group presentation.

- It was my responsibility to provide a historical overview of the Church of England and Homosexuality in England

How would you rate your participation in this group?

- I would say fair or good; I made myself available for meetings, calls and group texts. There was a slight hiccup within the group I would say that the hiccup enabled us to unite together and work on giving a presentation that we could all be proud of.

What was the most significant learning moment from this group activity?

- That God truly is important and that you must keep him in all aspects which for me is the most significant because I have the bad habit of compartmentalizing Jesus and putting him into a box. Instead of holding open the door of my life and letting him direct and order my steps. I think this semester I have struggled with trying to control my life and God has not and will not relinquish the control rather I have had to let go and let God. I greatly appreciate his graciousness towards me and how when I surrender and accept how he is daily molding and shaping me into the woman of God he created me to. I know this probably seems like a weird learning moment for a group activity, but I think by having ABBA guide and order my steps it would have allowed me to better work with my group and be a stronger leader within my group.

What were some challenges you experienced in this group activity?

- Making the time to meet with my group members when all three of us having demanding schedules and commitments. The time we were able to meet were productive and well spent and I am proud of what were able to produce.
