My population interest will be employees at my current place of employment. Hoping to analyze the data based on age, education, and gender. I will be analyzing the relationship between Laissez-faire leadership and employee flourishing.

2. What is your estimated sample size?

My estimated sample size will be about 100 people.

3. How well do you think your results will generalize to other groups, companies, etc.

The results will give other groups a good basis for understanding the research. I hope to get future leaders and current employees to look at the research with a clear and unbiased approach.

4. What are potential lurking variables?

A potential lurking variable could be mental health (i.e. stress/anxiety).

5. What confuses you the most about writing your thesis?

The most confusing part about writing the thesis must be the style from which we are expected to write. Wrapping my head around a more Scientific style of writing has proven to be the most difficult. I do have a tendency to overthink so I'm sure I am making it harder than it needs to be.
