

Ceremonial Speech about Veterans Day

As the president of the United States I would like to talk about Veterans day. We are in a setting with the congress, rulers, people from all around the world and old veterans that survived and I will be speaking about the importance that they have in our community. I might start describing what is veteran's day and why we celebrate it to the audience. I can start by saying, Veterans Day, in the United States is a national holiday (November 11) honoring veterans of the armed forces and those killed in the country's wars. The observance originated in 1919 on the first anniversary of the 1918 armistice that ended World War I and was known as Armistice Day. A veteran is a former member of the Armed Forces of the United States (Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard) who served on active duty and was discharged under conditions, which were other than dishonorable. I think It is very important to celebrate, remember and share these things with the audience about this wonderful day, because if it was not for the people who are constantly fighting for peace and protection of our country we would have not been here today to explain or tell stories. The world is already chaotic as it is, there are always wars and rumors of wars, hate, injustice, prejudice, much racism basically everywhere we go. Without the soldiers to protect way more than all the matters mentioned above and beyond we would not have the single amount of peace we have today. It is a cold world we live in however there are many undercover angels that helps our nation to feel safe and appreciated. I believe, the work they do are beyond measures. They sacrifice time with their family and loved ones to make sure we are spending our time wisely with our own family in peace while they go out in wars for the country's best interest. They continually risk their lives every day not knowing if they will return or not just to make sure every border of our country is safe. They risk their lives for people they have never met! Talk about surreal compassion and love for the right thing. They are true heroes with somewhat of acknowledgment in my opinion. There needs to be even more recognition. That is why I chose this extremely important topic. Not only do our veterans protect our rights and freedoms, but they also provide services and aid to those in need. They don't even look for anything in exchange they just want someone to hear their special stories. I am glad to hear that many are getting the help they need with mind battles because to fight for such a long time and keep your mind and head clear is extremely hard in some cases impossible. They see so much meaning they see people die, here gun shot frequently, make reasoning decisions also life and death decisions every time thus one can only imagine how tormented their minds must be.

Unfortunately, there are also suicidal veterans amongst us as well that we also need to talk about this issue when mentioning them because it is not easy. However, the government is always issuing them assistance like it has for all of its citizens. With proper mental health care and love from the society we can help them in a great way for all of that which they have done! There needs to be more speeches about them and that is why I choose such an example to talk about and inspiration that not all heroes wears cape.
