Final Paper Proposal

Gender roles in the church and in society have long been a source of controversy. Some contend that whereas women are made to be supporting and subservient, men are created to be leaders and decision-makers. Such gender-based structures, however, are outdated in today's culture. Any idea of gender-based discrimination should be abandoned because women are as capable of taking on leadership roles in the church and society. It is vital that we accept and embrace the equal access of men and women to roles in the church and society as society moves toward a more inclusive and egalitarian future and seek to promote gender equality in all spheres of life.
