Can Women Be Called To Ministry?

God has used many women in order to teach, educate, and inspire other people during biblical times. Today is no different. God is still calling and using women to spread the good news. However, there is a lot of controversy surrounding if women can serve in ministry and if these women are even being called at all. This is a result of 1st Timothy 2, mainly the verse that reads: "I do not permit women to teach or assume authority over a man(1 Tim 2:12).". There are women in the Bible that have broken barriers and have displayed courage, and tremendous faith. But regardless of how many barriers were broken, it seems like women are still being kept from things such as ministry or preaching. The role of women in ministry is still being questioned, for such a progressive time it's actually shocking that this question has created so many different answers. If women couldn't be called to ministry then why did God use so many of them to be vessels for him?
