Unit 3 Essay

Chapter 4

- 1) I was able to identify the clash of world views a handful of time. I would say my own worldviews were definitely challenged a few times with re reading the introduction. I would like to believe that if I was exposed to a culture where where it is funda,entally different than mind I would be open minded. At the same time I will probably be stuck in my own beliefs that it would be hard for me to understand or accept other things that I did not believe before.
- 2) I feel like for those four questions my answers would be assumptive because I do not have actual evidence that would I believe the answers to those four questions to be true. My answers may be different from the person next to me. Me personally My answers would be God and religious based but I personally do not know enough to back up my answers.
- 3) I also believe our worldviews are more inherited than chosen. I know a lot of my worldviews come from my parents and how they raised me and the things they taught me. I do have some worldviews that may differ from them but for the most part our worldviews are the same. I believe sometimes for us as humans it is hard for us to reflect on our own worldview assumptions because sometimes we do not see that we have them.
- 4) Some ways that I can sense that God is calling me to be a part of the redemption process is starting with my child. He has called me to raise him and know who God is so himself can spread the gospel. I also believe God wants me to be a part of the redemption process by having those conversations with the people around me about the love of God and how he wants them to believe and follow him. It is important to see that bigger than just being forgiven for our sins because that means we are wholeheartedly serving God and want to be a part of something bigger and actively serving God and trying our absolute best to stay away from sin.
