

The benefits of online learning

Jing Liu

EMMANUEL JEANPIERRE

Liberal Arts and Sciences

04/18/2023

The benefits of online learning

Recent years, online learning has become a hot focus among the public. The majority are in favor of it, since they think it can help to improve students' learning efficiency, while others hold a different opinion.

Personally, I side with the former in believe that online learning is beneficial for learning.(I'd like to outline the advantages of online communication.)To begin with,leaning online provides a convenient and effective way to acquire knowledge especially for the parents who have no time to send their kids to a training school.Besides, there is a lot of high quality learning material available online if we make a proper use of it, which will help to widen up students ' cultural horizons and optimize their success.

On the other hand, there are also some drawbacks. In reality, temptations on the internet are everywhere such as games, TV shows and so on. Students would be easily distracted by these temptations.Therefore, we need to help them learn how to sort through and take full advantage of online learning.

Considering all this, we can conclude that if we use online learning correctly, we will achieve effective teaching and learning.