Starting a Career in the Music Business

I appreciate hearing from this video that many songs can be identical, but some detach from others because they are hit songs. When it comes to the music business, people may have some difficulties starting in any of the fields they decide to find a job in because what they present, a record label, a producer, or someone known in the business, should be a hit that would open doors for them. Dan Shafer encourages everyone who wants to make it to understand why they are doing that and choose this particular career. By giving that advice, he motivates us to do our best and keep working on what we know, practicing what we are good at, and learning until we become one with the songs, the beats, the materials, etc. Shafer suggests we learn an instrument if we consider being a songwriter or singer or any other music careers.
