

Orlando Martinez

Professor OHara

World Civ1

18 April 2023

During this time of the Mongol empire the bubonic plague was around which was really bad for them, they worshiped nature. The Mongol army was very unique, they would travel on foot, they were definitely very smart. There were very vicious and killed many people and they would show other people and they would join them which made their army bigger, which led to division within them, but all this trade was also their doom because of all the germs from trading everywhere, the black death then starts which came from China. The ones in power are always going to be in power because they are wealthy. This is why there could easily be division amongst them.