

Orlando Martinez

Professor OHara

World Civ1

25 April 2023

Switching the oceans would completely change everything. Switching China with Europe would completely change everything since they would most likely discover the Americas, discovering Mexico and the Aztec Empire, China would definitely would try to overtake them. It would completely change history, they could have traded with them or completely over took them, placing China right there would have completely changed everything because China did a lot of exploring meaning anything could happen there's no saying what could happen since anything could happen, but definitely a lot of Chaos and fighting since china was huge on conquering aswell.