Chapter 8: Examining Relationships Among Your Variables: Correlational Design

I never been so passionate about something up until this point in my life just glory be to God. It's so easy to present information and tools to the people you are talking to but are things being effective at the current moment. To look over my topic "The relationship between impactful leadership and spiritual growth" is an amazing topic that I am able to do a research on. It is more than just a topic but we are able to look over a life style and do a deep study. Personally I wouldn't be able to this with out this class as well as looking over this chapter.

Chapter 1: Thinking Like a Researcher

Over the years I was so used to writing three paper reflection essays but never nothing like we doing now. The stuff we are doing now is pushing us to dig deep and you can't just be a regular thinker. A great researcher thinks outside the box but also he or she has the right information they need to make their case. There is no such thing of not having all your information together.

Chapter 5: Describing Your Sample

Every good case deserve to have a good explanation that comes with it and the people that are looking over your information can have something to reflected on. I don't want to be someone that just have information for you to just read but I want you be able to think about what you are reading and see how you can apply it to your life. When things is all said and done what purpose does sample serves if there isn't anything someone can take away from it. Every detail that you write does matter , no excuses or what someone else tells you.

Chapter 9: Examining Causality

Sometimes it can be hard looking through the information that you are researching but it is easy when you have all the facts together. I appreciate this chapter because it helped me to understand how to look up what I am looking for as well as help to understand what I am talking about. When it comes to examining information there is no wrong or right answers but it is what you see going on. Learning how to separate things and knowing what is what goes a long way and it helped me to further plead my writing.

Chapter 2: Build a Solid Foundation for Your Study Based on Past Research

History is a thing that repeats itself but the only thing that is different is the current time that the person is living in. People before I have written on the topics we are researching but just from a different concept. You will have people that will try to argue what you are writing on but with the proper information and a strong study there is no one that can call you liar about that very thing you are bring to their attention. I appreciate this chapter for teaching me that covering each corner does matter.
