Mentos Report

Mentors Summery

The past few months meeting with my mentor was different. This is the one time in my life that I had to seek a mentor who didn't know me as well. It was a new relationship that I had to build. I met with Russ Hodges who is my presbytery for Assemblies of God. He is currently helping me with my ordination process. A few key things that I learned in the past few months is my ability to lead but also the sense of God voice in my life. I also acknowledge a few blind spots as well. My meeting where constant until the 3rd meeting. Russ church had an 8-alarm fire that totally destroyed the church. I learned so much from him in this process about perseverance and faith. I saw him navigate it and still be able to lead his people during this difficult time.

In my time with him I feel like I have grown because he opens my eyes to things I have not seen before. I was able to receive from him a different perspective because he didn't know me. I ma looking forward to continue to work with him as he is rebuilding his ministry and church.
