What people APPRECIATE about me:	What is IMPORTANT TO me:	How to SUPPORT me:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Phil is known for his handsome smile, positive attitude, and love of head massages. • He likes to “pitch in” and help his staff with tasks around the building. • Phil has strong opinions and likes to be involved with his care. • He is a big sports fan and like to chat about sports and listen to KFAN during his day. • Phil is a patient and flexible friend. • He loves his family. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Phil’s suction machine is very important to him. When you are with Phil, please let him know that you can help him if I need to be suctioned. • Being repositioned frequently even though transferring can be stressful for Phil. He might turn red or blotchy during transfers. Give him the opportunity to participate in his transfer by letting him choose how he wants to be repositioned. • Working with familiar people who knows his communication style and honor his choices and decisions. • Phil’s family is very important to him. He lives with his parents (Janelle and Rankin) and visit with his 3 siblings and their families frequently. Phil is private about his family unless you know him well. • Having time to rest or relax during by day by listening to music, a book, or talk radio, and participating in sensory activities. Phil really likes head massages and hand rubs are okay too! 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Make sure that his suction machine is clean, charged, and placed on the back of my chair as soon as he arrives at PAI each day. • Help Phil move his body and support him in repositioning throughout my day. • Engage with Phil whenever possible by asking yes and no questions or offering him choices. • Include Phil in activities by letting him observe first and then asking if he would like to try. • Offer Phil sensory activities during the day. • Spend one to one time with him working on a project or let Phil supervise building duties.
