Chapters 1-11: Quiz

1. In Chapter 1, Dr. Lisle asserts that logical thinking does not mean the suppression of emotions. He says that “God always reasons correctly, and yet he has feelings.” Give an example from Scripture of how He shows us that He has feelings.
2. Some questions can be answered by science, and some cannot. Give an example of a question or type of question that cannot be answered by science.
3. What is stoicism?
 - A lifestyle characterized by minimalism
 - A philosophy advocating the suppression of emotions and pleasure
 - A style of art popularized in Greek society
 - The idea that there can be no absolute truth
4. What would you say to an unbeliever who says that since he can reason, this proves that logic and knowledge do not come from God?
5. Why is it a sin to think irrationally (Chapter 3)?
