

Reading Questions 13

1. In Beowulf, the mead hall is the meeting point for men who are feasting, drinking, and basically partying. In Sir Gawain, there's talk of food, Silky clothes, and caroling and jesting.
2. It doesn't sound like a court from the Dark Ages at all

Reading Questions 14

1. The Christmas games in both years were similar in that they both involved a trade. Last year's game was trading battle-axe blows-this year they will trade their day's winnings. W games.
2. The poet is portraying him as the essence of love. A very polite character. But he makes very risky decisions and is almost dangerous with his life.
3. Merlin is a prophet in both. And he also has the ability to work with nature. His power is not the kind that's magical and magician-type.

Reading Questions 15

1. Being a hero in the 14th century means to be Polite. It was a symbol of virtue almost.
2. He didn't give any gifts. And made excuses for not. He cheated in the games. And basically destroyed his reputation.
3. Jane does see a magic being/Venus in the lobby and sees that. Also in Gawain during the games, a large green man gets his head chopped off and begins to walk around.