

Every student should have a Prophetic Journal. What is the purpose of this?

We would like for you to begin identifying the ways the prophetic operates in your life, begin practicing prophecy in your daily life and journaling those experiences.

Here are some suggestions for practicing prophecy:

- Prophecy Your Day
- Practice Prophetic Evangelism
- Practice Prophetic Intercession

As you journal, please share 1 or 2 of those experiences by uploading them to the Prophetic Journal online. (These will not be visible by other students. Only your facilitators will be able to view your upload). You may come back and return to this section in this lesson.

3/28/2019

Sorry, I haven't been putting my experiences in here lately; but I've been busy. My experiences have been starting from January until today have been that of God confirming his truths to me. He is doing that through the word, through words of knowing to me for myself and through my prays by things I have read through the word of God. Just the other morning, 3/18/2019 he gave me the word "validation." Validation means to- act, process, or instance of validating; especially the determining of the degree validity of a measuring device. The scripture I found pertaining to this is in Mark 16:20.

I believe God was saying to me personally that my validation comes from him and him alone, that I don't get my validation from people, but from him. He also gave me a dream pertaining to this, where I saw myself at my old church. We were given speeches along with the kids. I had to write out what I was going to say. Only I couldn't say what was on the paper. I had to use the words that the Lord gave to me to say, which I should always do anyway. I found this so amazing, being that God gave me this message last Monday, and Sunday we had our teachers track Spring rally, and basically what was said at the rally was confirmed somewhat to me through the different speakers that spoke. So, I am learning that the Holy Spirit, never leaves us in the dark or without any direction, because as the word say he leads us in whichever way we should go. Sometimes, I look to people to get something that only God can give me, but he spoke to me personally and let me know what he wanted from me. I thank God for being God!
