

Molly Kukuczka Lesson Idea

So the entire beginning of the year is about how to be a responsible citizen. I teach English Language Learners primarily and I would love to add more art into this English Language Learner lesson. I am required to use the text from a program called Benchmark for my ELD lessons. Yet, most lessons are about 20 minutes and the state mandates I have to teach 60 minutes of ELD time a day. So I create powerpoints for every unit and this is lesson 7 of that unit. Then I take the initial lesson and its grammar focus, to then put it into writing practice. I want to start creating some diverse art activities to partner with literature on being a responsible citizen. I feel this is a relevant topic considering my city has been on a curfew for now the third day and my school site office is shut down today due to a protest scheduled less than a mile away. I know there is a way to tie it all to science in the engineering aspect, but I just need some more time to brainstorm.
