EDUCATION WORKSHOP

How Small Things Can Make a Big Difference: Harnessing the Power of Aviation Through Science, Technology, Engineering and Math (STEM)

Do you love aviation — want to go the extra mile and share that passion with students? Join the FAA Aviation and Space Education Team for this workshop. We will share some “little” ideas with you on how to motivate students and help teachers use simple aviation activities. Even if you already know the benefits of using aviation to motivate young people — come and learn a few new tricks. This workshop is hands-on. Participants will receive a certificate of completion. Activities for all grade levels.
